Sales and Business Development Manager in Germany Wanted

One of the worlds fastest growing dental manufacturing companies is looking for the right person to lead their German efforts. The company has a broad range of disposal products with an extensive reputation for quality and service support.

This newly created position requires an existing network of relationships with German dental dealer senior executives, sales managers, sales rep's, dental schools and opinion leaders.

The candidate that is selected will have an exceptional degree of autonomy to manage and operate the business, make fast decisions and grow a nationwide organization with the support of the company based in the USA.

Only the most qualified candidate need apply. To be considered the candidate must be fluent in German and English both written and orally. The compensation package will include salary, commission, expenses and a share of the companies profits.

If you feel you meet the qualifications and are up to a great opportunity and challenge please send your resume and salary history to:
