OMNICHROMA

The Future of Composites: Infinitely from A1 to D4 in a Single Syringe

Colour through light: For the first time, colours are not created by the addition of pigments, but rather by deliberately induced structural colours combining with the reflected colour of the surrounding tooth. The OMNICHROMA phenomenon uses the Smart Chromatic Technology along with the spherical fillers from TOKUYAMA, which are manufactured according to the "cultured pearl principle".

The effect: A single composite for all colours. Uniquely aesthetic. Uniquely smooth and shiny. Uniquely simple and time saving.

«6 – Henry Schein
turer. Is this a hybrid strategy that you are going to expand on in the future?»

Henry Schein believes that we should be able to provide every product and service that a practitioner may need: every product, from consumables to pharmaceuticals to equipment and software. Within the consumables space, we have specialty companies. We could not obtain access to high-quality innovative implants, of brand recognition available, at a reasonable price, so we invested in BioHorizons and CAMLOG likewise in the orthodontics and endodontics space. This puts us in a position to supply our customers with products of high quality, at a fair price. We are not focused on becoming a manufacturer, but in cases where we cannot obtain access to the products, then we will manufacture them.

Looking forward, how would you describe the company's vision for the coming years?

The achievements and the vision are the same: to keep a culture in place that remains relevant to our customers. We are working in an environment of "intreprenurship", which is entrepreneurship in a big company. Everybody is engaged and our job is to keep that atmosphere in place because it will constantly make us relevant to our customers. ◀
